Why learning about trees is so important...

1. Trees are the lungs of our earth. They absorb carbon dioxide and give us life sustaining oxygen by way of photosynthesis.
1. Forests serve as homes for 80% of animals and trees provide us with nutritious foods.
2. Trees keep us cool, act as water filters and reduce erosion.
3. The basic reason kids need to understand about tree preservation! Learning the good that trees do for us and the good that we can do for the planet by protecting them.
